Blocked Certificate Status:

This Blocked status indicates that, due to a reported safety incident such as improper use of equipment on-site the certificate is temporarily inactive. To ensure the highest safety standards, reactivation requires the participant to undergo a refresher training session. This process emphasizes the organization's commitment to maintaining a safe work environment and ensuring that all certified personnel remain fully compliant with current safety protocols.

A blocked certificate ensures that only those meeting all necessary safety requirements are actively certified, thus preventing unauthorized or unqualified individuals from performing high-risk tasks. Once refresher training is completed and compliance is confirmed, the certificate can be reactivated, restoring the individual's active status for workplace safety tasks.

The purpose is to ensure ongoing compliance with safety standards and to enhance the skills and awareness of the participants, thereby promoting a safer working environment.
